

I'm deeply concerned about the possibility of new LPFM radio stations pushing many of the wonderful high power stations from the airways. Many, many americans reap wonderful benefits from the networks like K-Love (106.7 in the Raleigh, NC area). These networks provide blessings both on the network level and at the local level (via public service announcements, local news bytes, etc). Losing stations like K-Love would have a detrimental affect on the quality of FM broadcasting choices, likely encouraging more folks to resort to pay for use satellite radio (e.g. XM) as an alternative. I hope you'll prayfully consider your alternatives. Thank you and God bless.
